

I would like the FCC to leave Indiana privacy law alone since what we have is better than what FCC is proposing. I used to recieve more than five calls daily at dinner time, now I get one a week. If you allow a selected few to start calling, others will find loop holes to get in the game again. We are fine in Indiana and the FCC should not re-generate the problems that has already been solved.